Q And Not U, John Davis, Harris Klahr and Chris Richards, formed in the summer of 1998 (along with former member Matt Borlik) and began playing out in November of that year. The band's first release, the "Hot and Informed" single, came out in April 2000. The band's second release, the "No Kill No Beep Beep" full-length record, was released in October of 2000.

Q And Not U released a single on vinyl and compact disc, "On Play Patterns," in April of 2002. In May and June of 2002, the trio returned to Inner Ear Recording Studio to record a new full-length, "Different Damage." It was released in the fall of 2002 and, like their previous recordings, it was produced and engineered by Ian MacKaye and Don Zientara. Following the release of "Different Damage," Q And Not U embarked upon extensive touring of the U.S., Europe, Canada and Japan.

In June of 2003, Q And Not U re-entered Inner Ear with Ian and Don to record the single, "X-polynation" b/w "Book of Flags." Upon the release of this single in September 2003 the band embarked on a major US tour with label mates Black Eyes and were joined for parts of this tour by other label mates El Guapo, Antelope and others.

In June 2004 the band entered The Love Story (El Guapo's home studio in NYC), with El Guapo's Rafael Cohen and Pete Cafarella, to record their new full length, "Power." The album was mixed with Don Zientara at Inner Ear studios and mastered by Chad Clark at Silver Sonya. "Power" is set to be released in early October in the states and late September in Europe.

Q and Not U plan extensive touring worldwide to coincide with the release of the album.
